

Brief Bio:

Victoria Martin Del Campo double majored in Economics and Honors Entrepreneurship at DePaul University. Furthermore, she went on to achieve her Masters of Science in Economics & Policy Analysis at DePaul University, Kellstadt Graduate School of Business class 2021. While attending graduate school, Victoria earned a Specialisation in Data Science from the University of Chicago. Throughout her college career, Victoria won multiple competitions and even represented DePaul at a National level. Some of her accomplishments include being the recipient of the Student Innovation Expo award in 2019, the Purpose Pitch student winner for 2020, and becoming a 2021 National Finalist at the Big East Challenge representing DePaul University in New York City.

During the 2019-2020 academic year, Victoria interned at the Cook County Treasurer's Office. This headquarters is considered one of the most respected financial offices led by Maria Papas. This experience sparked her interest and commitment to helping organizations advance by creating, developing, testing, and deploying strategic plans based on predictive modeling and forecasting. During her position with Cook County Treasurer's Office, her contributions impacted governmental financial outcomes through effective organization, prioritization, and execution of significant projects such as refunding $19.5 Million to rightful homeowners due to tax cuts. Within such responsibilities, she exercised a calculated and methodical approach to problem-solving.
