Cernan Earth and Space Center Offers Rocket Science Camp for Middle School Students
Campers Can Build and Launch Model Rockets

RIVER GROVE, Ill. – Build and launch model rockets at the Cernan Earth and Space Center's Rocket Science Camp, June 26-30, from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. The camp is for sixth through eighth grade students, costing $299 per student.

Campers will explore basic rocket science, Newton's laws, safety and rocket launching. Each student will build two rockets: a simple rocket and a complex rocket that they can take home after "Launch Day," which is Friday, June 30. Family and friends are invited to attend the launch activities.

Please note:

- Meals are not provided. Students must bring their own lunch and beverages.
- All times, dates, costs and locations listed are subject to change.
